At Least 14 Die In British
Express Train DerailmentMore Than 40
Hurt In Crash

SUTTON COLDFIELD, England, Jan. 23 (AP)—An express train traveling at 60 miles an hour jumped the rails today at this Midland station, killing at least 14 persons and injuring more than 40.

A second train speeding from the opposite direction pulled up just 200 yards short of the telescoped wreckage. One report said the second train was stopped by an unidentified woman in blue jeans who ran, waving, up the track.

Five hours after the crash police and firemen cut through twisted girders and rescued the last six passengers trapped in the crowded train.

Nine Coaches Leave Rails

The engine and 9 of 10 coaches plowed off the rails just as the train left a tunnel and entered the station. Two coaches piled on top of the overturned engine. Four others smashed up on the platform and knocked off half the station roof.

The train was traveling from York to Bristol. It normally runs on another route, but had been diverted today because of track repair work.

Forty ambulances and 20 fire trucks and their crews joined the rescue, working under floodlights into the night.

It was the first major British rail crash since August, 1953, and the worst since Oct. 8, 1952, when 112 persons died in a three-train pileup in North London.

Appeal For Blood Donors

Hospitals broadcast appeals for volunteers to give blood to the injured.

The firemen and police worked with acetylene torch equipment to reach the injured.

A casualty clearing station was set up on the Sutton Coldfield Station platform. There, local doctors treated casualties as they were pulled from the wreckage. Seriously injured were taken by ambulance to hospitals in the Midlands area.

Legislators Set
To Vote Selves
Quick Pay Boost

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—After years of flirting with the idea, Congress members finally appear ready today to vote themselves a pay raise, and it may be the first major item of business in the new Congress.

The Senate Judiciary Committee has scheduled hearings for Tuesday, with the prospect of completing a bill for Senate action within a week.

The House Judiciary Committee isn't bothering with hearings, and is expected to send its bill to the House floor as soon as it gets organized this week.

Along with fatter pay envelopes for themselves, members of Congress are due to vote raises for the federal judiciary as well.

The salary proposals for Congress members vary as to size. But they uniformly apply healthy increases to the $15,000 pay checks now drawn by senators and representatives—$12,500 in pay and $2,500 in expense money.

Flooding Seine Due
To Reach Peak Today

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP)—The normally peaceful Seine bucked and tore at bridges and parapets today. It flooded tens of thousands of acres around this city and sent hundreds of damp Parisians scampering to upper floors.

In some places the water raced along two feet or more above street level, held in check by barricades of steel and concrete erected in years past and now being raised to meet still further increases in the river level expected tonight and tomorrow.

Paris' great buildings are not in danger but water has flooded into the Palace of Justice, in one tower of which Queen Antoinette was imprisoned. A few bridges had to be closed to traffic.

German Steel For Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel, Jan. 23 (AP)—The 3,548-ton freighter Pergamon—the first German ship to anchor in Israeli waters—arrived at Haifa today. The ship carried from Hamburg 1,000 tons of iron bought by Israel in Germany under the German-Israeli reparations agreement.

Chou's Promised
Report On Fliers'
Health Is Awaited

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—The U. N. was still waiting today for Red China's Premier Chou En-lai to furnish health reports on four U. S. jet fliers held prisoner in North China.

The reports were promised two weeks ago when Chou handed over packets of photographs and other documents to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld describing the condition of 11 American fliers and two civilians jailed on "spy" charges.

Hammarskjöld brought the packets back with him from Peiping and formally turned them over to the United States last Monday. He divulged that Chou told him the four jet fliers were in good health in a camp in North China and that data on them would have to be forwarded after Hammarskjöld left Peiping.

There was further communication with Peiping last week through the door Hammarskjöld said he opened by his free-the-fliers-trip, but there has been no sign of the promised data.

Relatives of the fliers were still debating whether to accept the invitation issued by Red China last Friday to come see their men.

Except for the announcement of the invitation here and a quick official statement that the relatives could be assured they would be safe if they went to China, the U. N. remained chary about taking any stand.

Peiping Hits U. S. "Attitude"

TOKYO, Monday, Jan. 24 (AP)—Peiping radio asserted today the U. S. government "is trying to prevent" relatives of Americans imprisoned by the Red regime "from coming to China."

A broadcast said that relatives of three Americans had indicated they were ready to take up Peiping's offer.

The three are Capt. Elmer F. Llewellyn of Missoula, Mont., under 5-year sentence for "espionage"; Col. John Knox Arnold Jr., Silver Spring, Md., given 10 years; and Capt. Harold E. Fisher, Sweet City, Iowa, described by Peiping as "another American captured while intruding into Chinese territory in a military plane."

Love Didn't Laugh
At This Locksmith

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23 (AP)—Love laughs at locksmiths? Not always. Take K Coleman Pereslekin and Irma Fibus. They spent the first part of their honeymoon at a locksmith's.

Koleman, 26, and Irma, 21, had just been married and were dancing gleefully at their wedding reception last night when one of their friends playfully snapped a pair of handcuffs on them.

Irma slipped free, but K Coleman was in trouble because the key broke off in the lock. Irma said she wouldn't leave on their honeymoon until the manacle came off. Police were called but none of their keys fit. They gave K Coleman a good address.

You should have seen the young lovers smile at this locksmith!

Fireman Marshal Francis X. Joseph of the 5th District of Delaware County said a preliminary investigation and pieces of a strange metal found embedded in a window sill and on the roof of a nearby parked car indicated the object might have been a meteorite.

U.S. Warships
Steam Toward
Menaced IslesVessels Will Await Orders To Cover Any
Tachens Evacuation

TAIPEH, Formosa, Jan. 23 (AP)—Three U. S. carriers and other warships today steamed toward the invasion-menaced Tachens to await orders to cover the evacuation of the garrison in a deal by which the United States would help to defend some offshore islands, a reliable source said.

The informant said the U. S. warships were ready for action in the event the Communists try to interfere.

Peiping radio heard in Tokyo cold-shouldered any plan for a U. N. ceasefire, declaring it was a U. S. "plot" to "interfere in the domestic affairs of China."

Had it not been for the U. S. 7th Fleet, which guards Formosa from Red invasion, Formosa "would have been liberated years ago," said Peiping, quoting the People's Daily, official newspaper of the Chinese Communist party.

Air Battle Flares

The perilous nature of the waters into which the warships were reported moving was underscored by these two latest flareups:

1. An air battle broke out south of the Tachens, which are 200 miles north of Formosa, when the Chinese Communists intercepted a flight of four Nationalist planes. No damage to either side was reported.

2. The Defense Ministry said Nationalist artillery broke up an attempt by a small Red force of more than 10 junks to invade one of the islands near the Matsu Island group 100 miles northwest of Formosa. Matsu and Quemoy, across the strait from Formosa, would be brought under the 7th Fleet's protection as part of the deal, informants said.

Withdrew Up To Ike

Informants said the Nationalist withdrawal from the Tachens was contingent upon President Eisenhower setting a final seal to the plan for regrouping Nationalist forces and President Chiang Kai-shek issuing orders to the Tachen garrison to withdraw.

In Washington, informed officials said Eisenhower in a special message on the Formosa question Monday would request authorization to use U. S. air and naval forces in regrouping Nationalist troops.

Fast Action Set
On GI School Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—A bill to continue GI schooling benefits for men now in service was ticketed for fast action this week.

Broader and more controversial legislation, designed to expand benefits for veterans of peacetime service, seemed certain to be proposed in the wake of the schooling bill. But indications were it would be more difficult to jell the organized support needed to push through such measures.

The pending GI education bill, authored by Chairman Teague (D-Tex.) of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, would allow men who are in service on Jan. 31 to continue accumulating post-service schooling rights beyond that date.

Teague plans to hold hearings on the measure tomorrow and Tuesday. Then he hopes to win quick committee and House approval in order to get it over to the Senate, where a favorable reception seems likely. The bill is approved by President Eisenhower and major veterans' organizations.

It would revise part of Eisenhower's Jan. 1 order barring various Korean War benefits to men entering service after Jan. 31. The directive had the effect of cutting off, for men already in service by that date, any further accrual of education rights which now accumulate at the rate of 1½ days of schooling for each day in service.

Vacuum-Pack Coffee
Prices Coming Down

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—The price of vacuum-packed coffee is coming down.

Standard Brands Inc., roaster of Chase & Sanborn coffee, announced today it is reducing the wholesale price by three cents a pound. General Foods was reported to be planning reductions Monday of three cents a pound on Maxwell House, Yuban, Kaffee Hag and Sanka, and of two cents on Bliss coffee.

Chock Full O'Nuts Coffee Corp., New York, also announced that effective Monday it will cut its wholesale price by three cents. Instant coffee prices are expected to remain the same.

"Debacle" Feared

Senate Group Urges
Full Monopoly Probe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—A Senate subcommittee urged a full investigation today of what it called increasing concentration of economic power, starting with "monopolistic trends and abuses" in the electric power industry.

Its 115-page report said the nation now is "in the grip of the third great merger movement to sweep the country." It said the first two ended in disaster and it called for prompt action to prevent "a third debacle."

The subcommittee also hit hard at the controversial Dixon-Yates contract, negotiated at President Eisenhower's direction to feed private power into the lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA).

The report was submitted by Sen. Langer (R-ND), chairman of the Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee in the last Congress. Joining him in it were Senators Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Kilgore (D-W.Va.).

Sen. Dirksen (R-ILL) is preparing a separate minority report. The fifth member of the subcommittee, former Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ), has retired from Congress and did not take part in writing the report.

The subcommittee majority said that hearings held during the past year led to these two conclusions: 1. "There is a two-pronged drive by private monopoly to destroy public competition in the power business, and the Dixon-Yates contract is a part of that drive."

2. "Wall Street domination of the power industry has revived many of the holding company evils which Congress sought by legislation to suppress, particularly the extension of monopoly control over very wide regions."

The subcommittee urged that the present Congress provide it with adequate funds to extend and broaden the probe it already has made, but it said this should be "just the first stage in an overall monopoly study."

German Strike Ends

ESSEN, Germany, Jan. 23 (AP)—West Germany's big coal and steel industries snapped back to life today after a 24-hour strike by 860,000 workers protesting a plant director's charge of "labor blackmail." But alarm increased in government circles that Socialist-led unions may strike next against rearmament.

Currier admitted being with Prestage in Las Vegas Thursday and early Friday but blamed the shooting on a girl friend, Capt. James A. Bryant of the highway patrol said.

He waived extradition and returned to Las Vegas with Deputy Dist. Atty. Gordon Hawkins of Clark County, Nev., and two sheriff's officers.

Seven Men From Ditched Navy Plane Tell
Of Battling Sharks, Storms For 52 Hours

HONOLULU, Jan. 23 (AP)—There was the heaving sea, and sharks, and search planes which could not see the seven Navy airmen huddled in a tiny raft bobbing among 20-foot swells.

It was a 52-hour struggle with the sea. The sea lost. The seven were picked up by the military transport Ainsworth Friday.

An unnamed spokesman for the seven today radioed to the Hawaiian Sea Frontier what it was like after their twin-engine amphibian plane developed engine trouble on a flight from Kwajalein to Johnston Island in the Central Pacific Wednesday.

"We started to dump fuel," the spokesman said, "200 gallons from the port tank. Then we cut it off and started dumping the starboard tank but could not stop the flow so we decided to ditch the plane real quick."

Government Will Announce Sales
Of Rubber Plants

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The administration will report to Congress tomorrow that contracts have been closed with private buyers for virtually all the government-owned synthetic rubber industry. The selling price is believed to be upwards of 300 million dollars.

Twenty four of the 27 plants, built when World War II cut off natural rubber supplies, have been sold for what one official called an "astounding" price in view of their age.

Members of the Rubber Producing Facilities Disposal Commission, which will submit the final report on negotiations conducted the past year, were said to be confident Congress would approve the sale terms.

The sales become effective automatically 60 days after the report is filed unless Congress rejects the disposal program in whole or in part.

There have been reports the contracts would get close scrutiny from some legislators who are fearful acquisition of the plants by major rubber and petroleum producers would encourage a monopolistic concentration of the industry.

However, informed officials said the commission's report will go to Capitol Hill with a complete antitrust clearance from Atty. Gen. Brownell.

Although the "Big Four" rubber manufacturers—Firestone, Goodrich, Goodyear, and United States Rubber—are among the buyers, the commission was said to be satisfied that the country's 700 smaller makers of rubber products will be able to obtain synthetic in a free market.

Ice Links Japan

NEMURO, Japan, Monday, Jan. 24 (AP)—You could walk from Japan to Russian territory today if you wanted to, but no one wanted to.

At one point, the floes formed a frozen bridge from Japan to Russia's Kunashiri Island.

Demos Oppose
"Blank Check"
For PresidentEisenhower Urged
To Spell Out Plans,
Intentions In Detail

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Key Democrats urged today that President Eisenhower spell out in detail in a special message to Congress tomorrow this government's intentions with regard to the defense of Formosa. At least one said he hoped the President would not ask for "blank check" authority.

Despite a White House spokesman's statement that Eisenhower does not intend to draw any "blueprint for the Communists," Sens. Sparkman (D-Ala.), Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Douglas (D-Ill.) called in separate interviews for a specific clarification of Far Eastern policy.

The White House announced Saturday the President will send a message to Congress tomorrow noon dealing with U. S. policy in connection with security of Chinese Nationalist-held Formosa and ask for its support.

Ike Will Ask Defense Line

Republican leaders said the President plans to ask authority to define and defend a line beyond which Chinese Communists could not attack without meeting American resistance. They indicated the message would not specify where that line would run.

Sparkman, head of the Senate Foreign Relations Far Eastern subcommittee, said he hopes the President outlines a policy that won't leave anyone guessing about American intentions in the Formosa area.

Mansfield, a Foreign Relations Committee member, said that if Eisenhower "wants to be on sound ground he will have to spell out his intentions" in the message, rather than ask for what the Montana senator called a "blank check."

I hope the President will not ask us for legislation that either directly or indirectly gives him power to wage war beyond the great constitutional powers he already has in that field," Mansfield said, adding:

"If the President intends asking merely for general authority, Congress will have to give such a request the closest kind of scrutiny to avoid abdication of our own responsibility and the issuance of a blank check to the President to use as he sees fit."

Mansfield said that the Formosa defense pact which the Foreign Relations Committee will take up Tuesday spells out a defense line which includes Formosa itself and the nearby Pescadores Islands. He said the fact that the President plans to ask for authority to define and hold a line of U. S. defenses, as reported by Republican leaders, "indicates he may have another line in mind."

Soviet Influence
In UN At All-Time
Low, Lodge Says

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—After two hectic years of verbal dueling with the Russians, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. says he is convinced Moscow's influence in the U. N. is at an "all-time low."

Conversely, he says, with obvious pride that American satisfaction with the progress of the U. N. is at an all-time high.

"I'm glad to see that happen," he said in an exclusive interview marking the end of two years as the head of the U. S. mission to the U. N. "I think I had something to do with that."

Lodge summed up his philosophy of the assignment in this way: "The job here is essential to the life and liberty of the American people. While the U. N. has not worked out in the way people thought it would from a legal point of view, it has become a vital forum of public opinion. This makes the place absolutely vital. Second, it is a center for harmonizing differences and in that it has measured up to expectations. The challenge of the future is to get more countries in the U. N. I would eliminate the veto on the admission of new members."

That is all he would do with the veto. He would not change its application to the use of military force by the big powers. He would use it to bar Red China from a place on the Security Council—on that point he is clear, definite and final.

More Than 40 Hurt In Crash

SUTTON COLDFIELD, England, Jan. 23 (AP)—An express train traveling at 60 miles an hour jumped the rails today at this Midland station, killing at least 14 persons and injuring more than 40.

A second train speeding from the opposite direction pulled up just 200 yards short of the telescoped wreckage. One report said the second train was stopped by an unidentified woman in blue jeans who ran, waving, up the track.

The train was traveling from York to Bristol. It normally runs on another route, but had been diverted today because of track repair work.

Forty ambulances and 20 fire trucks and their crews joined the rescue, working under floodlights into the night.

It was the first major British rail crash since August, 1953, and the worst since Oct. 8, 1952, when 112 persons died in a three-train pileup in North London.

But alarm increased in government circles that Socialist-led unions may strike next against rearmament.

Currier admitted being with Prestage in Las Vegas Thursday and early Friday but blamed the shooting on a girl friend, Capt. James A. Bryant of the highway patrol said.

He waived extradition and returned to Las Vegas with Deputy Dist. Atty. Gordon Hawkins of Clark County, Nev., and two sheriff's officers.

Seven Men From Ditched Navy Plane Tell Of Battling Sharks, Storms For 52 Hours

HONOLULU, Jan. 23 (AP)—There was the heaving sea, and sharks, and search planes which could not see the seven Navy airmen huddled in a tiny raft bobbing among 20-foot swells.

It was a 52-hour struggle with the sea. The sea lost. The seven were picked up by the military transport Ainsworth Friday.

An unnamed spokesman for the seven today radioed to the Hawaiian Sea Frontier what it was like after their twin-engine amphibian plane developed engine trouble on a flight from Kwajalein to Johnston Island in the Central Pacific Wednesday.

"We started to dump fuel," the spokesman said, "200 gallons from the port tank. Then we cut it off and started dumping the starboard tank but could not stop the flow so we decided to ditch the plane real quick."

Government Will Announce Sales Of Rubber Plants

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The administration will report to Congress tomorrow that contracts have been closed with private buyers for virtually all the government-owned synthetic rubber industry. The selling price is believed to be upwards of 300 million dollars.

Twenty four of the 27 plants, built when World War II cut off natural rubber supplies, have been sold for what one official called an "astounding" price in view of their age.

Members of the Rubber Producing Facilities Disposal Commission, which will submit the final report on negotiations conducted the past year, were said to be confident Congress would approve the sale terms.

The sales become effective automatically 60 days after the report is filed unless Congress rejects the disposal program in whole or in part.

There have been reports the contracts would get close scrutiny from some legislators who are fearful acquisition of the plants by major rubber and petroleum producers would encourage a monopolistic concentration of the industry.

However, informed officials said the commission's report will go to Capitol Hill with a complete anti-trust clearance from Atty. Gen. Brownell.

Although the "Big Four" rubber manufacturers — Firestone, Goodrich, Goodyear, and United States Rubber—are among the buyers, the commission was said to be satisfied that the country's 700 smaller makers of rubber products will be able to obtain synthetic in a free market.

Ice Links Japan To Soviet Island

NEMURO, Japan, Monday, Jan. 24 (AP)—You could walk from Japan to Russian territory today if you wanted to, but no one wanted to.

It was 20 degrees below zero in this extreme northern Japanese city. Great ice floes from the sea of Okhotsk flowing south jammed up in Nemuro Strait, only 20 miles wide.

At one point, the floes formed a frozen bridge from Japan to Russia's Kunashiri Island.

Demos Oppose "Blank Check" For President

Eisenhower Urged To Spell Out Plans, Intentions In Detail

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Key Democrats urged today that President Eisenhower spell out in detail in a special message to Congress tomorrow this government's intentions with regard to the defense of Formosa. At least one said he hoped the President would not ask for "blank check" authority.

Despite a White House spokesman's statement that Eisenhower does not intend to draw any "blueprint for the Communists," Sens. Sparkman (D-Ala.), Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Douglas (D-Ill.) called in separate interviews for a specific clarification of Far Eastern policy.

The White House announced Saturday the President will send a message to Congress tomorrow noon dealing with U. S. policy in connection with security of Chinese Nationalist-held Formosa and ask for its support.

Ike Will Ask Defense Line

Republican leaders said the President plans to ask authority to define and defend a line beyond which Chinese Communists could not attack without meeting American resistance. They indicated the message would not specify where that line would run.

Sparkman, head of the Senate Foreign Relations Far Eastern subcommittee, said he hopes the President outlines a policy that won't leave anyone guessing about American intentions in the Formosa area.

Mansfield, a Foreign Relations Committee member, said that if Eisenhower "wants to be on sound ground he will have to spell out his intentions" in the message, rather than ask for what the Montana senator called a "blank check."

Pact Spells Out Defense Line "I hope the President will not ask us for legislation that either directly or indirectly gives him power to wage war beyond the great constitutional powers he already has in that field," Mansfield said, adding:

"If the President intends asking merely for general authority, Congress will have to give such a request the closest kind of scrutiny to avoid abdication of our own responsibility and the issuance of a blank check to the President to use as he sees fit."

Mansfield said that the Formosa defense pact which the Foreign Relations Committee will take up Tuesday spells out a defense line which includes Formosa itself and the nearby Pescadores Islands. He said the fact that the President plans to ask for authority to define and hold a line of U. S. defenses, as reported by Republican leaders, "indicates he may have another line in mind."

Soviet Influence In UN At All-Time Low, Lodge Says

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—After two hectic years of verbal dueling with the Russians, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. says he is convinced Moscow's influence in the U. N. is at an "all-time low."

Conversely, he says, with obvious pride that American satisfaction with the progress of the U. N. is at an all-time high.

"I'm glad to see that happen," he said in an exclusive interview marking the end of two years as the head of the U. S. mission to the U. N. "I think I had something to do with that."

Lodge summed up his philosophy of the assignment in this way: "The job here is essential to the life and liberty of the American people. While the U. N. has not worked out in the way people thought it would from a legal point of view, it has become a vital forum of public opinion. This makes the place absolutely vital. Second, it is a center for harmonizing differences and in that it has measured up to expectations. The challenge of the future is to get more countries in the U. N. I would eliminate the veto on the admission of new members."

That is all he would do with the veto. He would not change its application to the use of military force by the big powers. He would use it to bar Red China from a place on the Security Council—on that point he is clear, definite and final.

Bank Reports Earnings Up

The commercial department of the Second National Bank will soon move temporarily into the newly completed section of the enlarged quarters on South Liberty Street. This move, officials said, will shorten the time required for the renovation of the main banking room and lobby. Completion of the extensive remodeling and enlargement of the bank is now scheduled for early July.

In a letter to stockholders, Joseph M. Naughton, president, reports increased earnings in 1954. In part he says:

"Your bank's pretax earnings for 1953 were $129,637 — in 1954 they were $154,937. A year ago, the income tax collector took 40 1/4% of such earnings; for the latest twelve months' period, estimated U.S. income taxes consumed 34.6% of these earnings. Or, expressed another way, such taxes equalled $3.35 per share of capital stock in 1954 and $3.25 in 1953.

"In 1954 net profit, therefore, was equal to $101,647 or $6.34 per share. In 1953 the comparable data were $77,575 and $4.75. During each of these twelve months' periods, dividends of $200 were declared and paid. This increase of 31% in Net Profit in 1954 over the previous year is noteworthy, for two reasons: average general business conditions for most of the period and the construction-necessitated difficult working conditions during the second half of the year. That such a considerable improvement was achieved can be traced directly to the splendid cooperation of customers and staff."

At the end of 1954, the letter states, there was a book value of $78.89 for each $25 share of capital stock.

Youth Sentenced In Burglary

An 18-year-old boy was sentenced Saturday in Trial Magistrate Court to one year in the Maryland House of Correction for burglarizing The News Center, 17 South Centre Street, last week.

Robert E. Adams, 209 Hay Street, was one of five teen-agers nabbed early Wednesday on charges of stealing merchandise valued at $45 from the store of Martin Schwartz.

Given a hearing Thursday, he pleaded guilty but Substitute Magistrate Morris Baron deferred sentence pending further investigation of the youth's background.

The magistrate learned Adams had been arrested on four previous occasions for auto theft, breaking and entering, and siphoning gasoline from cars.

Of the others apprehended in the case, one was sent to the Maryland Training School for Boys and three were placed on probation by Magistrate Alban C. Thompson in Juvenile Court.

County Roads Department Lists 4th Quarter Costs

Total expenditures for the Allegheny County Roads Department during the final quarter of 1954 were $103,175.06, according to Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman.

Chapman explained in his report to the Board of County Commissioners that $53,239.15 of that amount went for purchases between October 1 and December 31, 1954.

The way the supervisor divided the purchases, $37,461.22 went for roads and bridges, $11,492.64 for equipment, $312.78 for tools and $3,972.51 for miscellaneous items.

Besides the purchases $47,001.81 was spent for labor, $323.60 for supplies and $2,239.60 for vacations. The commissioners, at their meeting last Friday, received letters from State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher announcing the reappointment of James S. Getty as his assistant and Edwin R. Lilya as the county investigator. He asked for formal approval of the four-year appointments which end December 31, 1958. This was accorded.

Approval also was given to the bond of Homer Ambrose as constable for McCoolle. He was then sworn in by Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

Besides reporting on the roads expenditures, Chapman also stated that the registration for surplus food to be received in March will take place February 1, 2 and 3. Distribution of food in February will start February 14.

The suspects, according to police, said they removed the Pennsylvania license plates from the vehicle and threw them away on Polish Mountain. A Maryland tag taken from a local machine was placed on the auto.

Lt. Raymond R. Johnston and Officer J. Carl Stouffer made the arrests. The pair was taken before Chief Judge George Henderson.

No Shooting War But— Rifles Are Cracking

Politicians frequently take to the air and begin, "Now that there is no shooting war going on—"

It is true there is no all-out war going on between sovereign states, big or little, singly or grouped on opposing sides. But shooting there is, and uniformed men and defenseless civilians are getting killed just as dead as if they were hit by atom bombs in global warfare.

The Red Chinese continue to step up their war on Formosa held by Chiang Kai-shek, while uttering shrill cries over the Peiping radio about the peridy of the United States in maintaining the Seventh Fleet in those waters.

South America seems to be in a ferment, with various troublemakers doing their best to get a general war started. Fear of incurring the wrath of Uncle Sam probably has acted as a deterrent.

The impromptu "Republic of the South Moluccas" is in armed rebellion against the Indonesian Republic, out yonder in the far Pacific. The Moluccans have never liked the new government that gained their islands from the Dutch. They like Indonesian rule even less now that the government at Jakarta, Communist-ridden, is falling apart. The Dutch, who are resisting Jakarta's demands to give up West New Guinea, are not sorry to see the Moluccas as a stumbling block for possible aggression.

At last reports rebellion is spreading in Indonesia — in the big islands of Sumatra, Celebes, Boreno, and Java.

In Malaya the British are stepping up their shooting warfare against the Communist guerrillas with new jet bombers that "can fly from Singapore to Indochina in 45 minutes."

For the old planet Earth this may be a reasonable state of quietude at that. But a crackle of rifle fire can quickly change, in this unstable world, into sound a thousand times louder.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Prisoners

It was difficult to understand, when he left for his safari to Peking, what Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations hoped to accomplish. So far as the American people are concerned, it was assumed that he went to see Chou En-lai to ask him to free the American prisoners of war who should have been exchanged at Pannunjom but who were detained as spies, which they could not be because they were in identifiable uniforms. It is euphemistic to call these men United Nations military personnel — they are Americans and they are the responsibility of our government.

So far as the Chinese people are concerned, Hammarskjold came a-begging, thus giving face to a government that has no seat in the United Nations. In a word, to use a Chinese expression, he kow-towed to the Communist government of China, strengthening that government's prestige in Asia where such a gesture is understood in Asiatic terms. Hammarskjold may wish for the recognition of Red China by the United Nations, but that, under the charter, is none of his business.

The fact is that the fliers have not been freed. A large number of Americans are still held in China. No official figure has been disclosed by the American government which probably can have no exact figure. Some are businessmen and missionaries; some are military personnel who may have been reported missing in action or even dead. The Red Chinese have not even shown our government the courtesy of providing accurate data.

In the many years that I lived in China, during which I saw considerable military action, I never encountered what we would call a prison camp. Captives were either killed or incorporated in the capturing army. Many were permitted to escape, to save the cost of feeding and housing them, and they became bandits. The term bandit and soldier were interchangeable during the wars of the Tachuns, the civil wars that lasted from 1912 to about 1932, a period of almost constant internal strife.

The Red Chinese refinement is to call these men spies rather than bandits, to wash their brains rather than to incorporate them into their armies, to hold them as hostages for some advantage in their negotiations for recognition by the United States and the United Nations. The prisoners are hostages.

There is no reason to believe that the Red Chinese would change their conception of the entire question of prisoners of war to please Dag Hammarskjold who came to Peking empty-handed. If he could bargain with Chou En-lai, as one used to bargain with a jade dealer, that would have been a different matter, but Hammarskjold had no bargaining power and therefore he could only listen to their complaints and to their offers. But he could not get the fliers freed.

As a matter of fact, the Red Chinese showed their contempt for him and for the United States by starting another bombardment of the Tachen Islands while he was still in Peking and just leaving. Chinese courtesy — he chi — would have indicated to Chou that the bombardment be held up until after he had arrived in New York, so that he, Hammarskjold, would not lose face, but the present regime in Peking pays no attention to such trivialities.

The point of the matter is that Chou leaves us three alternatives:

1. Let the prisoners stay in China and rot there;
2. Throw the bomb at Red China;
3. Recognize them on condition that they graciously permit all Americans now held in China to be returned to the United States, and we would have to take their word that they are sticking to their contract as we do not know how many they hold.

Whether we are patient or impatient will affect the situation little unless we go to war, which we do not want to do. Therefore, we are stuck with a bad mess and we might as well face it.

I recently saw a screening of a motion picture, "Bamboozle Prison," which was made by Bryan Foy with rare sensitivity. This picture gives a dramatic impression of what a Chinese prison is and how Americans are treated. It is all a story, but I could not help thinking of our boys who are still eating millet and having their brains washed and I realized that the real trouble is that nobody knows what to do about it.

The Case Of The Slashed Sombrero

British Want American Military Guarantee Of Malaya

By Joseph Alsop

SINGAPORE, Malaya

Just under 14 years ago, this reporter first came to Singapore on a special job for Gen. Chennault and his Flying Tigers, who were training in those days in Burma.

It was already night, and the rain was coming down in heavy, impenetrable sheets, but the young British pilot of the very old Wellington bomber was as contemptuous of the weather as he was of the enemy. (He blew himself up with his own bombs, a few weeks later, attacking the attackers of the Prince of Wales.) So we landed somehow, taxied to a halt before a lighted hangar, and were pleasantly greeted by a heavily mustachioed RAF group captain.

Getting out in the rain was a hurried business, but no one could have avoided a glance at the object in the hangar entrance. It was a biplane with no cowling to streamline its vast radial engine and a total armament of two small machine guns. The group captain was asked just what was this thing that seemed to have come out of a boys' aviation annual for 1925.

"Haarrumph," said the group captain, blowing the raindrops out of his mustachios. "Haarrumph! Why that's one of our fighter squadrons. Jolly maneuverable little aircraft too, old boy."

Much Less Complacent

This rainsoaked recollection recurs at the moment because it points a contrast. This year in a situation of much more remote peril, the British authorities in Singapore and Malaya are immeasurably less complacent than they were in the time just before Pearl Harbor. In fact if anyone succeeds in waking up the British and American governments, the able soldiers and civilians at the head of affairs here will have a large share of the credit.

The peril in Malaya is still distant in time, but its outlines are already obvious. It results from the Asian Munich which was signed at Geneva. The triumph of the Viet Minh in Indochina is having two kinds of effects here.

On the one hand, there are the direct effects. Last year, the brilliant Gen. Sir Gerald Templer could reasonably hope that another 12 months of hard pressure would change the whole dimensions of the problem of Malaya's Communist guerrillas. He did not expect an epidemic of local surrenders that would restore security to big areas of Malaya that have not known full security for many years. But the watchword that keeps the guerrillas in the jungle going is, "Father Mao Tse-tung is coming, so hang on a little longer."

The events in Indochina seemed to give reality to the slogan. So the problem of the jungle guerrillas not only remains exactly what it always was in Malaya. In addition, a new zone of complete Communist control, no less than 20 miles in width, has been significantly established just across the border in Thailand.

Reds Influence Students

In addition, the Viet Minh triumph has importantly assisted the Communist effort of underground infiltration. In this Chinese city, somewhere between 60 and 80 per cent of the Chinese students have joined or are deeply influenced by the party.

each day's demerits. The boys, ages 9 to 14, took their medicine like soldiers and were disappointed when the practice was discontinued after it received adverse publicity. They much preferred "licking" as punishment to being deprived of TV.

One sheriff gave the police permission to use night sticks on juvenile delinquents. Another source suggested that parents return to the use of the slipper and the woodshed. A judge advocated that delinquents under 14 be jailed along with hardened criminals because "it is a mistake to shield them too much."

Justice Polier says other authorities favor the "punish the parents" movement. He cited an example of a mother who was sentenced to one year in prison for contributing to the delinquency of her son. The sentence was reversed when the woman was found mentally ill; in addition, "she had been deprived of her constitutional rights."

Like other parents, she needed help rather than punishment. Mothers and fathers are penalized sufficiently by the mental anguish associated with having a delinquent child. There are exceptions, however, and many parents deserve criticism.

On the other hand, groundwork for delinquency may have been laid when the father and mother were too young to understand, or through circumstances over which they had no control.

It is generally understood that millionaires in Singapore are beginning to tend toward the Peking line. And there are many other signs that the Chinese, who form nearly half the total population of Malaya, are now watching and waiting for a Communist bandwagon in Asia.

These direct effects of the Geneva-Munich are trifling, however, compared to the indirect effects. These comprise the mournful calculations of the British authorities in Malaya as to what will happen if the Communist bandwagon in Asia really gets rolling.

From this vantage point, the situation in Cambodia, Laos and Thailand is being watched with anxious attention and a realistic absence of optimism. It is admitted, moreover, that if Thailand falls, the situation in Malaya will be untenable on the present basis. A bold rectification of the Malay-Thai frontier, to give a defensible line on the Kra Isthmus; at least three more divisions of ground forces from Britain, Australia and New Zealand — these may well be the minimum requirements to keep Malaya under control, even if no Communist forces cross borders aggressively.

British Want U. S. Aid

To guard against the latter danger, the British would also frankly like an American military guarantee of Malaya, and would like that guarantee spelled out in the form of a promise of air and naval aid in event of war.

Despite these worries at the top, of course the surface of life in Singapore is pleasant and untroubled. The bandwagon has not yet started rolling. But since it is extremely likely to do so unless serious efforts are made to stop it, an idea of the problems that may result is not without considerable current value.

Nightclub Singer Takes Sen. McClellan For Dance At White House Soiree

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Dour John McClellan, the Arkansas senator who put Joe McCarthy in his place during the Army-McCarthy hearings, got taken for a ride—or rather a dance—at the White House the other evening.

The person who took him for the dance was famed night-club singer Hildegarde, who proceeded to whisper sweet and sometimes risqué nothings in his ear right in front of his wife.

Hildegarde, in private life Miss Hildegarde Loretta Sell, was the after-dinner entertainer at the President's soiree in honor of Speaker Sam Rayburn. After a solo dance, during which she made eyes at Mr. President and Mr. Sam, she suddenly pounced upon the sedate and solemn senator from Arkansas who was sitting among the white-tie-and-tailed guests in the front row.

Before he knew it, the slightly flabbergasted McClellan was pulled out onto the dance floor.

The owl-like countenance which peered out from behind bone-rimmed glasses during the McCarthy hearings flushed just a bit as Hildegarde waltzed, sang and whispered.

"Oh, Senator," she cooed in one of those stage whispers that could be heard by everyone. "You're entrancing. You dance so beautifully. 'Darling,' she breathed, 'you're terrific. Why don't we team up together? Why go back to the Senate?'"

"You're simply stunning . . . Are you married? . . ."

The senator from Arkansas danced on.

"And where is your wife?" asked

Hildegarde, as she finally released him.

The senator said nothing. He pointed with his thumb over his shoulder. Mrs. McClellan was sitting right behind.

"Usually when I finish dancing with such a handsome man, I kiss him," she announced. Perhaps in deference to Mrs. McClellan, Senator McClellan got no kiss.

Nixon And Rayburn

Feature of the evening was a toast by President Eisenhower to the honor guest — Speaker Rayburn.

Two days before, Ike had given a dinner in honor of Vice President Nixon, at the end of which he did not propose a toast to the guest of honor. But to Rayburn he did. He got around the absence of the toast to Nixon by saying that this was the first time an official dinner was given to Rayburn; that official toasts were reserved for foreign dignitaries.

"But, he continued, 'the President can break precedent.'"

"Mr. Sam is the congressman from the district in Texas where I was born," continued the President.

"But I don't mean to imply," he added slyly, "that he was in Congress when I was born."

The President went on to say that he was glad Sam Rayburn is back as speaker. Perhaps he didn't notice that a wry smile appeared on the face of ex-Speaker Joe Martin, the Republican whom Sam succeeded. Or perhaps he did.

Anyway, the President added with a grin:

"Well . . . almost glad."

At the White House dinner for Nixon two days before, the President had Mrs. Nixon on his right and chatted cordially with her husband. But the President knew that if he had proposed a toast to Nixon on the 13 Democrats present would almost have choked on their champagne.

The Lady From Minnesota

Mrs. Coya Knutson, freshman congresswoman from Minnesota, hardly had time to get settled in Washington when she received this note from her 15-year-old son, Terry, a student at Oklee (Minn.) High School: "Hurry up and do something, Mom. Folks back here sure are relying on you."

Mrs. Knutson's 275,000 constituents can relax. The lady from Minnesota began talking about the downward trend of farm prices the moment she hit town and doesn't intend to stop until she has everybody from President Eisenhower down to and including Capitol page boys alerted to the situation.

"If you knew the prices my dairy and grain farmers are getting in the present market, you'd be shocked," she says. "I campaigned all most entirely on that issue and I'm going to continue campaigning here in Washington."

NOTE—Before getting into politics, Mrs. Knutson farmed and taught school. During the last campaign, a farm-labor leader introduced her as follows: "Many an early morning I have seen Coya in south forty running a tractor or climbing a barbed wire fence. What's more, she did it like a lady."

Hammarskjold In Dark

U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold complained to Secretary Dulles last week that vital information was being withheld from him.

In their secret meeting, Hammarskjold politely chided Dulles for not tipping him off in advance about the secret deal with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Under this agreement, Chiang promises not to attack the Chinese mainland without American permission. Hammarskjold told Dulles if he had known about this before he went to Peiping he could have used it as a very strong talking point with the Chinese Communists in trying to win freedom for the American fliers.

Colleges, Schools, Taxes

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Do you hope you will be able to send your children to college between now and 1964? If you expect them to get a sound education, and you to get your money's worth, much must be done. Both teachers' salaries and their efficiency (which is now comparatively low) must be increased.

College Problem Is Serious

Fifty years ago, only about four per cent of the youth of college age were able to go to college. Two great events on our national scene boosted enrollments sharply — the depression and the GI Bill. Prewar, about 15 per cent of our youth of college age attended such schools. Between 1945-49 a little better than 25 per cent were enrolled. Then, the number shrank during 1950-52. Chiefly responsible for this drop was the fewer number of births in the 1930-35 depression.

But, 1952 saw a 1.5 per cent increase in college enrollments over 1951; and 1953 rose 4.8 per cent over 1952, so that again about 25 per cent of our youth of eligible age were in college. The 1954 fall enrollments probably registered a 6 per cent-8 per cent increase.

Can Forecasts Be Trusted?

If you project to 1970 the number of children born, you will have a 16 per cent increase in the youth of college age by 1960, a 46 per cent increase by 1965, and a 70 per cent increase by 1970. And if an increasing percentage of our youth of college age go on to college, enrollments could double by 1970.

The above is based on the assumption that we shall continue to make more education opportunities available for our youth, as we always have. Educators claim that by 1970 a good third of our young people of college age may enroll. This would more than double student bodies, and perhaps require double the number of teachers and much more classroom space. Personally, I believe this is like forecasting 500 for the Industrial Stock Average. I question such figures.

The Teacher Problem

The teacher shortage will not be limited to colleges. Our elementary and secondary schools may need about 140,000 new teachers each year for the foreseeable future. Yet, it is estimated by the experts that only about half the number of teachers needed for the public schools alone will be graduated from college.

But, someone will have to teach your little Johnny and Susie. If adequately trained teachers are not available, persons with substandard qualifications will have to be pressed into service. Now, why is there a teacher shortage? The answer, in part, is that teachers are underpaid.

Salaries Compared

Public-school classroom teachers' salaries averaged about $3,600 for 1953-54. This is less than many business and engineering college graduates got as a starting salary on their first jobs a year or so ago. And 1953-54 was a good year for the teachers too, for it represented an average salary rise of 4.8 per cent over the previous year.

Still, 14.1 per cent of the 1,028,899 teachers received less than $2,500, and only 14 per cent received $4,500 or more. College teachers' salaries go very little higher. The medium income of physicians, on the other hand, was about $11,200; lawyers, $7,750; dentists, $7,100; but with much higher top figures attainable. How can we hope to hold good men in top educational jobs which pay $5,000-$8,500 when their counterparts in industry offer ceilings unlimited?

Taxes Should Not Be Raised

If we want capable teachers, we shall have to pay wages competitive enough to encourage them to make the tremendous outlay of time and expense needed for their education. To hold our able teachers, we shall have to pay salaries. This means higher taxes.

I forecast that our democratic society, with full employment, can prosper only as we provide adequate schooling for our youth, with a moderate tax rate. This means that our educational leaders must provide far more efficient methods of learning by doubling the use of present facilities. What industry could survive in this competitive era with its factories being used only six hours per day?

No Shooting War But—Rifles Are Cracking

Politicians frequently take to the air and begin, "Now that there is no shooting war going on—"
It is true there is no all-out war going on between sovereign states, big or little, singly or grouped on opposing sides. But shooting there is, and uniformed men and defenseless civilians are getting killed just as dead as if they were hit by atom bombs in global warfare.

The Red Chinese continue to step up their war on Formosa held by Chiang Kai-shek, while uttering shrill cries over the Peiping radio about the periphery of the United States in maintaining the Seventh Fleet in those waters.

South America seems to be in a ferment, with various troublemakers doing their best to get a general war started. Fear of incurring the wrath of Uncle Sam probably has acted as a deterrent.

The impromptu "Republic of the South Moluccas" is in armed rebellion against the Indonesian Republic, out yonder in the far Pacific. The Moluccans have never liked the new government that gained their islands from the Dutch. They like Indonesian rule even less now that the government at Jakarta, Communist-ruled, is falling apart. The Dutch, who are resisting Jakarta's demands to give up West New Guinea, are not sorry to see the Moluccas as a stumbling block for possible aggression.

At last reports rebellion is spreading in Indonesia — in the big islands of Sumatra, Celebes, Boreno, and Java.

In Malaya the British are stepping up their shooting warfare against the Communist guerrillas with new jet bombers that "can fly from Singapore to Indochina in 45 minutes."

For the old planet Earth this may be a reasonable state of quietude at that. But a crackle of rifle fire can quickly change, in this unstable world, into sound a thousand times louder.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Prisoners

It was difficult to understand, when he left for his safari to Peking, what Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations hoped to accomplish. So far as the American people are concerned, it was assumed that he went to see Chou En-lai to ask him to free the American prisoners of war who should have been exchanged at Panmunjom but who were detained as spies, which they could not be because they were in identifiable uniforms. It is euphemistic to call these men United Nations military personnel — they are Americans and they are the responsibility of our government.

So far as the Chinese people are concerned, Hammarskjold came a-begging, thus giving face to a government that has no seat in the United Nations. In a word, to use a Chinese expression, he kow-towed to the Communist government of China, strengthening that government's prestige in Asia where such a gesture is understood in Asiatic terms. Hammarskjold may wish for the recognition of Red China by the United Nations, but that, under the charter, is none of his business.

The fact is that the fliers have not been freed. A large number of Americans are still held in China. No official figure has been disclosed by the American government which probably can have no exact figure. Some are businessmen and missionaries; some are military personnel who may have been reported missing in action or even dead. The Red Chinese have not even shown our government the courtesy of providing accurate data.

In the many years that I lived in China, during which I saw considerable military action, I never encountered what we would call a prison camp. Captives were either killed or incorporated in the capturing army. Many were permitted to escape, to save the cost of feeding and housing them, and they became bandits. The term bandit and soldier were interchangeable during the wars of the Tachuns, the civil wars that lasted from 1912 to about 1932, a period of almost constant internal strife.

The Red Chinese refinement is to call these men spies rather than bandits, to wash their brains rather than to incorporate them into their armies, to hold them as hostages for some advantage in their negotiations for recognition by the United States and the United Nations. The prisoners are hostages.

There is no reason to believe that the Red Chinese would change their conception of the entire question of prisoners of war to please Dag Hammarskjold who came to Peking empty-handed. If he could bargain with Chou En-lai, as one used to bargain with a jade dealer, that would have been a different matter, but Hammarskjold had no bargaining power and therefore he could only listen to their complaints and to their offers. But he could not get the fliers freed.

As a matter of fact, the Red Chinese showed their contempt for him and for the United States by starting another bombardment of the Tachen Islands while he was still in Peking and just leaving. Chinese courtesy — ke chi — would have indicated to Chou that the bombardment be held up until after he had arrived in New York, so that he, Hammarskjold, would not lose face, but the present regime in Peking pays no attention to such trivialities.

The point of the matter is that Chou leaves us three alternatives:

1. Let the prisoners stay in China and rot there;
2. Throw the bomb at Red China;

3. Recognize them on condition that they graciously permit all Americans now held in China to be returned to the United States, and we would have to take their word that they are sticking to their contract as we do not know how many they hold.

Whether we are patient or impatient will affect the situation little unless we go to war, which we do not want to do. Therefore, we are stuck with a bad mess and we might as well face it.

I recently saw a screening of a motion picture, "Bamboozed Prison," which was made by Bryan Foy with rare sensitivity. This picture gives a dramatic impression of what a Chinese prison is and how Americans are treated. It is all a story, but I could not help thinking of our boys who are still eating millet and having their brains washed and I realized that the real trouble is that nobody knows what to do about it.

The Case Of The Slashed Sombrero

British Want American Military Guarantee Of Malaya

By Joseph Alsop

SINGAPORE, Malaya
Just under 14 years ago, this reporter first came to Singapore on a special job for Gen. Chennault and his Flying Tigers, who were training in those days in Burma.

It was already night, and the rain was coming down in heavy, impenetrable sheets, but the young British pilot of the very old Wellington bomber was as contemptuous of the weather as he was of the enemy. (He blew himself up with his own bombs, a few weeks later, attacking the attackers of the Prince of Wales.) So we landed somehow, taxied to a halt before a lighted hangar, and were pleasantly greeted by a heavily mustachioed RAF group captain.

Getting out in the rain was a hurried business, but no one could have avoided a glance at the object in the hangar entrance. It was a biplane with no cowling to streamline its vast radial engine and a total armament of two small machine guns. The group captain was asked just what was this thing that seemed to have come out of a boys' aviation annual for 1925.

"Haarrumph," said the group captain, blowing the raindrops off of his mustachios. "Haarrumph! Why that's one of our fighter squadrons. Jolly maneuverable little aircraft too, old boy."

Much Less Complacent

This rainsoaked recollection recurs at the moment because it points a contrast. This year in a situation of much more remote peril, the British authorities in Singapore and Malaya are immeasurably less complacent than they were in the time just before Pearl Harbor. In fact if anyone succeeds in waking up the British and American governments, the able soldiers and civilians at the head of affairs here will have a large share of the credit.

The peril in Malaya is still distant in time, but its outlines are already obvious. It results from the Asian Munich which was signed at Geneva. The triumph of the Viet Minh in Indochina is having two kinds of effects here.

On the one hand, there are the direct effects. Last year, the brilliant Gen. Sir Gerald Templer could reasonably hope that another 12 months of hard pressure would change the whole dimensions of the problem of Malaya's Communist guerrillas. He did not expect an epidemic of local surrenders that would restore security to big areas of Malaya that have not known full security for many years. But the watchword that keeps the guerrillas in the jungle going is, "Father Mao Tse-tung is coming, so hang on a little longer."

The events in Indochina seemed to give reality to the slogan. So the problem of the jungle guerrillas not only remains exactly what it always was in Malaya. In addition, a new zone of complete Communist control, no less than 20 miles in width, has been significantly established just across the border in Thailand.

Reds Influence Students
In addition, the Viet Minh triumph has importantly assisted the Communist effort of underground infiltration. In this Chinese city, somewhere between 60 and 80 per cent of the Chinese students have joined or are deeply influenced by the party.

Since half the population of Singapore is under 21, the student attitude is more than normally meaningful. Furthermore, the newspapers of the greatest Chinese millionaires in Singapore are beginning to tend toward the Peking line. And there are many other signs that the Chinese, who form nearly half the total population of Malaya, are now watching and waiting for a Communist bandwagon in Asia.

These direct effects of the Geneva-Munich are trifling, however, compared to the indirect effects. These comprise the mournful calculations of the British authorities in Malaya as to what will happen if the Communist bandwagon in Asia really gets rolling.

From this vantage point, the situation in Cambodia, Laos and Thailand is being watched with anxious attention and a realistic absence of optimism. It is admitted, moreover, that if Thailand falls, the situation in Malaya will be untenable on the present basis. A bold rectification of the Malay-Thai frontier, to give a defensive line on the Kra Isthmus; at least three more divisions of ground forces from Britain, Australia and New Zealand — these may well be the minimum requirements to keep Malaya under control, even if no Communist forces cross borders aggressively.

British Want U. S. Aid

To guard against the latter danger, the British would also like to have an American military guarantee of Malaya, and would like that guarantee spelled out in the form of a promise of air and naval aid in event of war.

Despite these worries at the top, of course the surface of life in Singapore is pleasant and untroubled. The bandwagon has not yet started rolling. But since it is extremely likely to do so unless serious efforts are made to stop it, an idea of the problems that may result is not without considerable current value.

Get-Tough-With-Children Trend On Increase In U. S.

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The war cry against children who do not conform is increasing in tempo throughout the country. Schools are blamed for not teaching the three R's adequately; and parents are held responsible for delinquency. "Let's get tough" is the central theme.

We must not overlook the fact that 95 to 98 per cent of all youngsters are law abiding good kids. Some authorities are of the opinion that the answer lies in teaching more self-control rather than submission; this is the democratic way.

According to Justine Wise Polier, of the New York City Domestic Relations Court, many incidents of the past few years demonstrate the trend toward "get tough."

The head of a church school announced that "two whacks on the seat, administered with a large flat paddle" would be given for each day's demerits. The boys, ages 9 to 14, took their medicine like soldiers and were disappointed when the practice was discontinued after it received adverse publicity. They much preferred "licking" as punishment to being deprived of TV.

One sheriff gave the police permission to use night sticks on juvenile delinquents. Another source suggested that parents return to the use of the slipper and the woodshed. A judge advocated that delinquents under 14 be jailed along with hardened criminals because "it is a mistake to shield them too much."

Justice Polier says other authorities favor the "punish the parents" movement. He cited an example of a mother who was sentenced to one year in prison for contributing to the delinquency of her son. The sentence was reversed when the woman was found mentally ill; in addition, "she had been deprived of her constitutional rights."

Like other parents, she needed help rather than punishment. Mothers and fathers are penalized sufficiently by the mental anguish associated with having a delinquent child. There are exceptions, however, and many parents deserve criticism.

On the other hand, groundwork for delinquency may have been laid when the father and mother were too young to understand, or through circumstances over which they had no control.

It is generally understood that children often misbehave to get even with parents for neglecting them in early childhood. This attitude is selfish and shortsighted but is so thoroughly ingrained as to be almost impossible to erase.

Records show that punishment actually has little or no effect upon curbing delinquency. But self-righteous parents of non-delinquents, who are incensed over the misdeeds of others, seem to derive satisfaction from hearing about such punitive measures. In this respect, the "get tough" and "back to the woodshed" programs are a retreat from American ideals and smack of totalitarianism.

X-RAY AND CANCER
C. R. writes: Can cancers be detected by X-ray?
REPLY

Some can and others can't. Cancer of bone, lung, stomach, and intestines are examples of lesions that can be detected via X-ray. The same cannot be said for malignancies of the prostate, uterus, and lip.

VIRUS AND SKIN
F. L. writes: Can a virus attack the skin?
REPLY

Yes, but in the majority of such cases the disease is generalized, with skin manifestations. Examples are shingles, measles, chicken pox and smallpox.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Nightclub Singer Takes Sen. McClellan For Dance At White House Soiree

By Drew Pearson

Hildegarde, as she finally released him.

The senator said nothing. He pointed with his thumb over his shoulder. Mrs. McClellan was sitting right behind.

"Usually when I finish dancing with such a handsome man, I kiss him," she announced. Perhaps in deference to Mrs. McClellan, Senator McClellan got no kiss.

Nixon And Rayburn
Feature of the evening was a toast by President Eisenhower to the honor guest — Speaker Rayburn.

Two days before, Ike had given a dinner in honor of Vice President Nixon, at the end of which he did not propose a toast to the guest of honor. But to Rayburn he did. He got around the absence of the toast to Nixon by saying that this was the first time an official dinner was given to Rayburn; that official toasts were reserved for foreign dignitaries.

"But, he continued, 'the President can break precedent.'"

"Mr. Sam is the congressman from the district in Texas where I was born," continued the President.

"But I don't mean to imply," he added slyly, "that he was in Congress when I was born."

The President went on to say that he was glad Sam Rayburn is back as speaker. Perhaps he didn't notice that a wry smile appeared on the face of ex-Speaker Joe Martin, the Republican whom Sam succeeded. Or perhaps he did.

Anyway, the President added with a grin:

"Well . . . almost glad."

At the White House dinner for Nixon two days before, the President had Mrs. Nixon on his right and chatted cordially with her husband. But the President knew that if he had proposed a toast to Nixon on the 13 Democrats present would almost have choked on their champagne.

Washington Whirl

A mysterious thief swiped the nameplate off "Veep" Alben Barkley's door. Commented the new Kentucky senator: "Someone either likes me or hates me." . . . President Eisenhower confided to visitors that one of his pet annoyances is the 16th hole at the Augusta golf course . . . Washington street scene: Assistant President Sherman Adams, the thrifty Yankee, glancing furtively both ways, then ducking into a shoe-repair shop . . . Dixiecrat Senator Strom Thurmond, a write-in victor in South Carolina, cast a lone vote at a secret Democratic caucus against a resolution commending the Senate Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee . . . The new budget calls for $5 million just for paper cups and towels for government washrooms. It will take the taxes of 10,000 average taxpayers to pay for them . . . The Atomic Energy Commission has prepared a movie on the problems of radioactive "fall-out." It will be released to the public to relieve apprehension over radioactive poisoning from the skies . . . Attorney General Brownell, the President's political adviser, has advised him to shelve the controversial Dixon-Yates power contract.

The Lady From Minnesota

Mrs. Coya Knutson, freshman congresswoman from Minnesota, hardly had time to get settled in Washington when she received this note from her 15-year-old son, Terry, a student at Oklee (Minn.) High School: "Hurry up and do something, Mom. Folks back here sure are relying on you."

Mrs. Knutson's 275,000 constituents can relax. The lady from Minnesota began talking about the downward trend of farm prices the moment she hit town and doesn't intend to stop until she has everybody from President Eisenhower down to and including Capitol page boys alerted to the situation.

"If you knew the prices my dairy and grain farmers are getting in the present market, you'd be shocked," she says. "I campaigned almost entirely on that issue and I'm going to continue campaigning here in Washington."

NOTE—Before getting into politics, Mrs. Knutson farmed and taught school. During the last campaign, a farm-labor leader introduced her as follows: "Many an early morning I have seen Coya in south forty running a tractor or climbing a barbed wire fence. What's more, she did it like a lady."

Hammarskjold In Dark

U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold complained to Secretary Dulles last week that vital information was being withheld from him.

In their secret meeting, Hammarskjold politely chided Dulles for not tipping him off in advance about the secret deal with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Under this agreement, Chiang promises not to attack the Chinese mainland without American permission. Hammarskjold told Dulles if he had known about this before he went to Peiping he could have used it as a very strong talking point with the Chinese Communists in trying to win freedom for the American fliers.

Colleges, Schools, Taxes

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Do you hope you will be able to send your children to college between now and 1964? If you expect them to get a sound education, and you to get your money's worth, much must be done. Both teachers' salaries and their efficiency (which is now comparatively low) must be increased.

College Problem Is Serious

Fifty years ago, only about four per cent of the youth of college age were able to go to college. Two great events on our national scene boosted enrollments sharply — the depression and the GI Bill. Prewar, about 15 per cent of our youth of college age attended such schools. Between 1945-49 a little better than 25 per cent were enrolled. Then, the number shrank during 1950-52. Chiefly responsible for this drop was the fewer number of births in the 1930-35 depression.

But, 1952 saw a 1.5 per cent increase in college enrollments over 1951; and 1953 rose 4.8 per cent over 1952, so that again about 25 per cent of our youth of eligible age were in college. The 1954 fall enrollments probably registered a 6 per cent-8 per cent increase.

Can Forecasts Be Trused?

If you project to 1970 the number of children born, you will have a 16 per cent increase in the youth of college age by 1960, a 46 per cent increase by 1965, and a 70 per cent increase by 1970. And if an increasing percentage of our youth of college age go on to college, enrollments could double by 1970.

The above is based on the assumption that we shall continue to make more education opportunities available for our youth, as we always have. Educators claim that by 1970 a good third of our young people of college age may enroll. This would more than double student bodies, and perhaps require double the number of teachers and much more classroom space. Personally, I believe this is like forecasting 500 for the Industrial Stock Average. I question such figures.

The Teacher Problem

The teacher shortage will not be limited to colleges. Our elementary and secondary schools may need about 140,000 new teachers each year for the foreseeable future. Yet, it is estimated by the experts that only about half the number of teachers needed for the public schools alone will be graduated from college.

But, someone will have to teach your little Johnny and Susie. If adequately trained teachers are not available, persons with substandard qualifications will have to be pressed into service. Now, why is there a teacher shortage? The answer, in part, is that teachers are underpaid.

Salaries Compared

Public-school classroom teachers' salaries averaged about $3,600 for 1953-54. This is less than many business and engineering college graduates got as a starting salary on their first jobs a year or so ago. And 1953-54 was a good year for the teachers too, for it represented an average salary rise of 4.8 per cent over the previous year.

Still, 14.1 per cent of the 1,028,899 teachers received less than $2,500, and only 14 per cent received $4,500 or more. College teachers' salaries go very little higher. The medium income of physicians, on the other hand, was about $11,200; lawyers, $7,750; dentists, $7,100; but with much higher top figures attainable. How can we hope to hold good men in top educational jobs which pay $5,000-$8,500 when their counterparts in industry offer ceilings unlimited?

Taxes Should Not Be Raised

If we want capable teachers, we shall have to pay wages competitive enough to encourage them to make the tremendous outlay of time and expense needed for their education. To hold our able teachers, we shall have to up salaries. This means higher taxes.

I forecast that our democratic society, with full employment, can prosper only as we provide adequate schooling for our youth, with a moderate tax rate. This means that our educational leaders must provide far more efficient methods of learning by doubling the use of present facilities. What industry could survive in this competitive era with its factories being used only six hours per day?

New Bishop Is W. Va. Native

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23 (AP) — The Rev. Harry Lee Doll, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Baltimore, announced today he would accept the post of suffragan bishop of Maryland.

As suffragan bishop, Dr. Doll will serve as assistant to Bishop Noble C. Powell of the Maryland diocese. He will be Maryland's first suffragan since 1814.

Eye care protects one of your most valuable possessions—sight. Makes your eyes lovelier, too.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The eyes have a language all their own. You can declare you're having a delightful time at a party, and give the lie to the statement with a blank stare. Or pretend disinterest in your surroundings while your eyes present evidence of excitement.

Let your eyes "speak" brightly . . . let them say you're alert, alive, and interested! Make them shine, with mascara and shadow to bring out their color and expressiveness. But first, take care of them. Sight is a precious gift which you should treat with respect.

Eight hours' sleep every night is the best sparkle treatment you can provide. Proper diet helps, too. See that yours contains plenty of vitamins A and B2 (riboflavin), found in fresh fruits and vegetables, dairy products, whole-grain cereals, liver, kidney, peanuts, oysters, eggs.

Safeguard your sight by avoiding eyestrain. Have good light when you read or work. Don't read when lying down. Break up long periods of close work with intervals of rest. Be sensible about television. Reduce glare by wearing sunglasses. Have prescription specs if you need them . . .

hesitation about wearing glasses is ridiculous, with today's smart, stylish frames!

Have your vision checked regularly, whether you wear glasses or not. Regular checkups on your eyes are as important as regular physical and dental checkups. You identify a weakness before it becomes an ill that requires prolonged treatment.

When eyes are fatigued, rest them. You can get relief simply by closing them and cupping the palms over the eye area to shut out, briefly, every ray of light. If you can spare 15 minutes, this is decidedly worthwhile: wring out a compress in a cold and mild solution of salt water or witch hazel; press against the eyes and lie down for a few moments. Commercially prepared washes are useful, too, for freshening the eyes.

Quick Rest

For a quick relaxer, squint a few times. If squinting feels natural, heed the warning signal that means one of two things: either you are going about with a perpetual frown that is the outward revelation of inner discontent, or you need glasses. Whichever is true, the cause of your squint should be corrected! Its effect isn't pretty in the least!

Radio And Television by John Crosby

Bing Crosby—Philosopher

Bing Crosby, having scaled all the other heights, has set himself up recently as a bit of a philosopher and sort of lay brother on his five-a-week radio program (CBS 9-15 pm, EST Mon. through Fri.) On his very first program he announced that, along with the songs, he proposed to "venture a few opinions," to make some remarks on sports and show business and also—save the mark—literature.

As a commentator, Der Bingle is relaxed, intelligent and—I can think of no better word—uplifting. In the first program, for example, he spoke of what he called "a rash of probity" that had broken out in the sports world—commenting on the football player that called a foul, missed by the referees, on his own team which nullified a touchdown; of the golf player who insisted on taking a six instead of a five on one hole which threw him into a tie rather than a win for a tournament, and of a girl who called attention of the judges in a spelling contest to the fact that she got four words wrong, thus costing herself the championship. "With crime rampant every day, it's certainly nice to hear of these nice people," declared Bing. It sure is.

He then went on to sing a song in a voice that needs no elaboration. If you haven't heard it, you must have arrived yesterday in a saucer from some place else. (Stick around and catch Liberace; You'll go right back to where you came from.)

In subsequent shows, Crosby has roamed from physics to books. "Youngsters nowadays are missing one of life's real rich experiences," he said, "the finding of good books, the reading of them, and telling others of them." And he went on to recommend four books which he considered ideal for young men and women or boys and girls—"A School for Hope" by Michael McLaverty, "The Reason Why," the story of the Light Brigade's famous charge by Cecil Woodham Smith; William Faulkner's "The Bear" (which got a rave notice from Mr. Crosby); and Emil Ludwig's "Life of Napoleon." (Crosby is the second entertainer to plug this book this year. The other one: Sid Caesar. I just hope they keep it away from Jackie Gleason. His career is altogether too imperial already.)

"I assume, of course, that all us older folks have already dug 'em," concluded Crosby—which I throw in partly as sample of the

GRIN AND BEAR IT By Lichty

"It's supposed to be a stark, realistic drama of modern medicine... How come there's no talk about fees?"

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Bing Crosby—Philosopher

Bing Crosby, having scaled all the other heights, has set himself up recently as a bit of a philosopher and sort of lay brother on his five-a-week radio program (CBS 9-10 p.m. EST Mon. through Fri.). On his very first program he announced that, along with the songs, he proposed to "venture a few opinions," to make some remarks on sports and show business and also—save the mark—literature.

As a commentator, Der Bingle is relaxed, intelligent and—I can think of no better word—uplifting. In the first program, for example, he spoke of what he called "a rash of probity" that had broken out in the sports world—commenting on the football player that called a foul, missed by the referees, on his own team which nullified a touchdown; of the golf player who insisted on taking a six instead of a five on one hole which threw him into a tie rather than a win for a tournament, and of a girl who called attention of the judges in a spelling contest to the fact that she got four words wrong, thus costing herself the championship. "With crime rampant every day," it's certainly nice to hear of these nice people," declared Bing. It sure is.

He then went on to sing a song in a voice that needs no elaboration. If you haven't heard it, you must have arrived yesterday in a saucer from some place else. (Stick around and catch Liberace. You'll go right back to where you came from.)

In subsequent shows, Crosby has ranged from physics to books. "Youngsters nowadays are missing one of life's real rich experiences," he said, "the finding of good books, the reading of them, and telling others of them." And he went on to recommend four books which he considered ideal for young men and women or boys and girls—"A School for Hope" by Michael McLaverty, "The Reason Why," the story of the Light Brigade's famous charge by Cecil Woodham-Smith; William Faulkner's "The Bear" (which got a rave notice from Mr. Crosby); and Emil Ludwig's "Life of Napoleon." (Crosby is the second entertainer to plug this book this year. The other one: Sid Caesar. I just hope they keep it away from Jackie Gleason. His career is altogether too imperial already.)

"I assume, of course, that all us older folks have already dug 'em," concluded Crosby—which I throw in partly as sample of the

Crosby critical style and partly as a sample of Crosby's unwarranted but thoroughly refreshing optimism. Whether this sold any books or not, I have no way of knowing. Nobody has managed to sell many books on a radio program since Alexander Woolcott died—but it's nice that someone is trying.

Crosby and his very astute writer Bill Morrow shrewdly flatter the listener with the assumption that he is as widely read as they are. "Recently," said Crosby on one broadcast, "I've run across statements by two very important men on the subject of thinking. I'm sure lots of you folks listening have run across these statements, too, but I would like to repeat them just the same." Having thrust us all on this intellectual plateau, Crosby went on to quote financier Cyrus S. Eaton as saying: "Scientific discoveries in the past 15 years have brought us into a new universe, so tremendous that even our imaginations are too feeble to appreciate the possibilities. The physicists of today have more power than was attributed to the gods a few years ago." His second thought for the day was a quote from Dr. Lee S. Dubridge that the United States must make thinking popular. "Too many Americans have the idea that having brains is okay but not very interesting," declared Crosby. "That is one reason why not enough students are becoming scientists, at a time when more scientists and engineers are badly needed."

After this sort of sage observation, it comes as a bit of a shock to hear the lyrics of "Hey, There," or—as on a recent Crosby show, sung by son Lindsay—"Muskrat Ramble." Still, I don't suppose there's much Crosby can do about the lyrics of popular songs.

It's a pleasant and thoughtful 15-minute show and if you can get the dust off the radio set, you might try listening some time. You'll dig a brand new Crosby.

Golf Title

Cops $2,490 Prize
With Score Of 274

By BOB MYERS

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 23 (AP)—
Tempestuous Tommy Bolt completed his conquest of the field in the $15,000 San Diego Open Golf Tournament today, shooting a one under par 71 for a total score of 274 and a two-stroke victory over his nearest rival.

Cashing the register for the top money of $2,490, the 34-year-old professional from Houston held off a belated bid from Johnny Palmer of Charlotte, N.C., and best him

by a pair of strokes.

It was a start-to-finish triumph for the tall Texan. He belted out an opening round 64, a 67 the next day, a 72 yesterday and followed with today's 71 to beat par by 14 strokes for the 72-hole distance.

Palmer came in with a 69 after rounds of 69-70-68 for his total tally of 216.

Tied at third place were Fred
Haas Jr. and Ted Kroll, each with a 67 and a total of 277 strokes.

Another shot back were Jack
Burke Jr., who was three strokes off the pace and the nearest to Bolt as the final fireworks got under way, and BO Winingger, who finished a 67 to land in the higher echelons. Burke had to settle for a 72.

The scene was the Mission Valley
Country Club, with par of 36-36
—72 and whose 6,796 yards were swarming with an estimated 13,000 golf fans.

Gene Littler of Palm Springs, the pre-tournament choice, the winner last year and the pride of his erstwhile hometown folks, came in with a 71 for 279. Littler was a threat with a 69 and 66 the first two days, but yesterday's 73 killed his chances.

Palmer collected $1,800 for second and Kroll and Haas $1,300 apiece.

Baby Victim Of Fire In Gorman Home

Mercy Plane Flies Three Injured To Baltimore Hospital

An 18-months-old baby was fatally burned and six other persons were injured when a four-room frame house was destroyed by an early morning fire yesterday at Gorman.

The youngster, Margaret Ann Lee, died in University Hospital, Baltimore, after a mercy plane flown by the Maryland Air National Guard took three of the more critically burned to the Baltimore hospital.

Listed in very critical condition at University Hospital and "just holding their own," with second and third degree burns over most of their bodies are Mrs. Evelyn Lee, 47, grandmother of the fatally burned child, and Loretta Lee, 10, a daughter of Mrs. Lee.

Hospitalized with varying degrees of burns at Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland are Henry Lee, 16, Mary Jane Lee, 11, Shirley Ann Lee, 7, children of Mrs. Evelyn Lee, and Frankie Lee, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Lee, parents of the little girl who died.

Attendants at the Oakland hospital said the seven injured persons were taken there at 9:38 yesterday morning following the 5 a. m. blaze which leveled the Lee family's home near Gorman.

Four Escape Injury
Dr. J. H. Feaster, who along with Drs. J. A. Alvarez and Thomas Lusby, treated the victims, said last night the four patients in the Oakland hospital were "satisfactory."

All of the victims were burned about the face, hands, arms and legs. Dr. Feaster said, while the three who were rushed to Baltimore were more critically injured, with extensive burns covering more than 50 per cent of their body area.

The baby succumbed, he said, to burns covering more than 75 per cent of his body.

Dr. Lusby said Joseph Lee, 48, husband of the critically injured woman; a son, Joseph Jr., 18, and the parents of the fatally burned child, escaped from the blazing house without injury. David Lee, 26, also is a son of the elder Lee.

Hospital attendants at Oakland said the Lee family lived in a four-room, two-story frame house about seven or eight miles from Gorman and about a quarter-mile off a secondary road in a remote and isolated section of Garrett County.

With no communications available and no automobile, the family had to stand outside helplessly in about 20-degree temperatures after escaping from the burning building, which was leveled in a matter of minutes.

Without Aid Three Hours
They were brought to the hospital by two neighbors, Herbert Wilison and Don Moreland, who were contacted by one of the Lee boys after the stricken family had been without assistance and suffering from their many burns for nearly three hours.

The grandmother told authorities her husband had got up yesterday morning to build a fire in the large wood stove downstairs. The remainder of the family was asleep on the second floor.

Some clothes hanging above the stove were ignited and the flames quickly spread to the frame building, blocking off the nearby stairway to the second floor.

The elder Lee ran outside and shouted to awaken the family asleep upstairs. Rousing his wife and some of the older children Lee called to them to jump out the second story window.

The children quickly jumped, the authorities said, with the exception of Loretta, 10, who was severely burned when she became afraid to jump and refused to leave the burning structure.

The grandmother, who tossed Frank and Margaret Ann to her husband, returned to the burning bedroom to rescue Loretta, and the two were the last to leave the building.

Air Alerted
Informed of the baby's death, Margaret Ann's mother said that in the confusion she and the baby's grandmother each thought the other had rescued the child. Margaret Ann had been severely burned before the error was discovered and she was tossed to safety.

Saeli To Attend Briefing On Air Force Defense Plan

Anthony Saeli, president of the Maryland Council of Chambers of Commerce, has been invited to a briefing and inspection of U. S. Air Force facilities connected with the Air Defense of Maryland.

The invitation was extended by General McCauley, commanding general of the 26th Air Division.

T. B. Cumiskey Heads Federal Credit Union

Thomas B. Cumiskey Jr., was named president of the A1-Gar Federal Credit Union Friday night during a meeting at the Old Herman Room.

The organization includes federal employees of the two counties. Other officers named at the annual election are Wilbur L. Ross, vice president; R. J. Stakem, treasurer and John C. McCullough, secretary.

The new officers were elected from the board of directors, which includes Cumiskey, Stakem, Ross, T. A. Carcaden, McCullough, John F. Powell and P. Emmett Fahey.

The credit committee headed by John J. Harvey includes Miss Mildred L. Peterson and Fahey. The supervisory committee headed by John Hutton includes Miss Alice Stakem and John B. Wolfpoth.

Stakem made a report for the first 10 months of operation of the newly-formed group and his data showed that during the period a total of $14,110 was distributed among the members.

According to a report, a dividend of three per cent was voted by the membership. Harvey gave a breakdown on the type of loans made.

Hutton reported that the organization's books were in order and commended the treasurer. Retiring president James J. Robertson reported on the activities of the group and thanked the members for their cooperation during the 10-month period.

Textile Workers Begin Balloting

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), began casting ballots in their annual election early this morning at the Amelle plant of the Celanese Corporation.

The first ballots were cast at 1:30 a. m. in the plant cafeteria. Additional balloting is slated today at the cafeteria at 6 a. m., on the pay lines and at the union hall.

Heavy balloting is expected since there are six seeking the president's post. They are Playford Aldridge, Harry Carns, William Gordon, Melvin Harris, Earl L. Snyder, incumbent, and John G. Thomas.

The voting will continue through Wednesday.

Fort Hill Organizations Unite In Polio Campaign

Six leading student organizations of Fort Hill High School have united forces to support the 1955 March of Dimes Campaign in its fight against polio.

Included in the groups sponsoring the drive are the Boys' Hi-Y, the Alpha and Beta Tri-Hi-Y, the Sentinel, and the student council. They hope to top the mark of $465 which Fort Hill contributed to the Allegany County campaign last year.

Harry King, Junior Class president and also a member of the Hi-Y, Sentinel, and student council, is general chairman of the drive, having been appointed by Miss Mary M. Calemene, newspaper advisor.

He will be assisted by leaders from the groups connected with the campaign. These include Becky Rice, Alpha Tri-Hi-Y; Betty Hill, Beta Tri-Hi-Y; Fern Kenney, Hi-Y; George Eskin, Sentinel; and Louis

The purpose of the visit is to familiarize civic leaders of the state with the air defense problem for Maryland in case another war should ever start.

The group will take off from Friendship Airport Wednesday morning in an Air Force plane for McGuire Air Field, New Jersey. There they will see a fighter-interceptor scramble and the ready-room of the air base.

They will then fly to Mitchell Air Field, Long Island, where they will be guests at lunch and will be briefed in the Combat Operations Center at Headquarters of the 26th Air Division. They will then return to Friendship Airport that evening.

In a communication to Saeli, Shirley Ewing, director of the Civil Defense Agency of the State of Maryland said, "It is an excellent opportunity actually to see what your Air Force is doing to deter aggression and to detect and destroy any attack that might be launched against this country."

The Civil Defense Agency is co-ordinating arrangements for the flight since it affects the state Ground Observer Corps program, on which it works closely with the Air Force.

Presbyterian Church To Get New Assistant

Norris Lee Cook Sr., a senior at Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh, will become part-time assistant pastor at First Presbyterian Church February 6, the church announced yesterday.

A native of Kenmore, N.Y., a suburb of Buffalo, he is a graduate of Maryville (Tenn.) College, and will be graduated from the seminary in May.

On May 29 he will be ordained to the ministry by the Presbytery of Buffalo-Niagara in his home church at Kenmore.

After his ordination he will come here as a full-time assistant pastor. Until then, he will be here only on weekends. He now is student pastor of four churches in rural Pennsylvania mining communities.

In his work here he will be responsible for Christian Endeavor work, including superintending Sunday school, the youth groups, summer conference, daily vacation Bible school, youth budget and teacher training.

Eventually he will become acting pastor of Barreille Presbyterian Church.

Goldstein and Cannon came up with bills to make the governor's appointment of commission members subject to confirmation by the Senate. In addition, Goldstein proposed that there be five members instead of three.

Move To Probe SRC Operations Gains Momentum

GOP Heads Reported Agreeable To 'Study'

By LOU PANOS

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 23 (AP)—A move to probe State Roads Commission operations gained ground tonight with reports that neither Gov. McKeldin nor Commission Chairman Russell H. McCain has any objection to it.

A high-ranking Democratic member of the Maryland Legislature said he drew this conclusion after discussing the proposal with the Republican governor and McCain.

The Democratic leader, asking that his name be withheld, said McKeldin and McCain had agreed a "study" proposed in a bill last Friday could help "clear the air" of controversy surrounding the commission and its 12-year, $68-million dollar roads program.

Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County), the Senate majority leader and one of the bill's sponsors, disclosed shortly after introducing the measure that some attempt probably would be made to increase the funds available for the probe.

Some senators who attended a party meeting after the weekend adjournment of the General Assembly had expressed doubt that the originally recommended $32,000 would be enough to do the job.

One of these, Sen. Northrop (D-Montgomery), also suggested the possibility of regular checks by outside consultants on the long-range highway program, instead of just one survey while the program still has 10 years to run.

Turnbull said no one was "accusing the commission of anything" but he felt a probe might dispel any "misunderstanding resulting from recent publicity" about the agency.

"If there is something wrong," he added, "now's the time to find out about it. If there isn't the study still will have been worthwhile."

Besides the Baltimore County Democrat, sponsors of the bill include Senate President Goldstein (D-Calvert), Sens. Malkus (D-Dorchester) and Nock (D-Wicomico).

Face Other Bills

An identical measure was introduced in the House at the same time by Del. Cannon (D-Wicomico), who had announced a week earlier he would call for an investigation of "haste and waste" in the commission's operations.

The agency, which was criticized by Democratic candidate for governor H. C. Byrd in the last election campaign, also is the target of several other pieces of legislation which were introduced last week and are scheduled to come up for consideration in legislative committees within the next few days.

Goldstein and Cannon came up with bills to make the governor's appointment of commission members subject to confirmation by the Senate. In addition, Goldstein proposed that there be five members instead of three.

Perhaps if Job had realized this, he would have wished these words to remain. He had outgrown them. But they were written, and like the Law of the Medes and the Persians, could not be erased from the facts.

There is something awe-striking in the thought of the irrevocability of words, deeds, events, even of thoughts.

My friends, fatalism can never be reconciled with Christianity. The doctrine that whatever is to be, will be, regardless of anything that we may will, is absolutely pagan, and diametrically opposed to the spirit of Christ. Jesus believed that man could do something about the human situation, and acted upon that conviction. He recognized the mistakes of the

Mahoney Urges Party To Back Md. Development

Says Industry Needed In State

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23 (AP)—George P. Mahoney, a political bridesmaid often enough but never a bride, has picked up the industrial development plank from his party's last campaign platform and is waving it in the face of fellow Democrats.

"The Democratic Party," he said yesterday, "has a certain responsibility to initiate legislation designed to fulfill this platform pledge."

Mahoney urged Democratic legislators to begin "a coordinated program to attract new industries to Maryland." He went into details about what he feels should be done.

The pronouncement was Mahoney's second in the last two weeks concerning the Maryland political scene. They came on the heels of a silence stretching back to the final settlement of the summer primary in which he lost a bitter struggle to H. C. Byrd for the gubernatorial nomination.

Political observers undoubtedly will consider his sudden activity with reference to the U. S. Senate race coming up in 1956, in an attempt to get a determination of his plans. Mahoney got the Democratic senatorial nomination in 1952, but lost in the general election to his Republican rival.

In a letter to Democratic leaders in both houses of the General Assembly, Mahoney suggested a resolution calling upon the governor to appoint a State commission "to study the need for the feasibility of a State economic and industrial development agency."

One thing such a commission should study, he said, "is credit corporation plans developed in the New England States to supply venture capital to new industries without resort to government subsidy."

Mahoney added: "A thorough study may reveal no need for a new agency in this field. But there are definite indications some areas of Maryland are suffering from serious underdevelopment."

Youths To Be Arraigned In Elkins Today

Police Find $6,254 In Roadside Cache

Two Cumberland men yesterday admitted to West Virginia State Police in Elkins the robbery of the Stockmans Bank of Harman in Randolph County Saturday morning.

State Police Sgt. E. L. Roush said the pair, William Alfred Miller, 20, of 430 North Centre Street, and Hilbert Elwood Dolly, 20, of 320 Columbia Street, were being held in Randolph County Jail pending arraignment this morning in Justice of the Peace Court on armed robbery charges.

The men probably will be held for action of the grand jury next month, he said. They face a possible 10 years to life imprisonment if convicted on the state charge.

Federal Bureau of Investigation officials, who assisted in the case, waived jurisdiction and will let the state prosecute the pair, according to Robert E. Maxwell, prosecuting attorney.

Money Is Recovered
Sgt. Roush said $6,254 of the loot taken from the bank was found yesterday when the men led officers to a cache about seven miles from the bank. Roush added, "They say that's all of it."

The cashier of the Harman bank had reported the amount missing as $9,482.52. Roush said he believed the two accused had returned all the money and that an official bank audit undoubtedly would straighten out the discrepancy.

The bank, held up at 10:10 a. m. Saturday, is located at Harman, a small community of 200 about 30 miles east of Elkins. Roush said the two admitted that Miller was the man who entered the bank while Dolly waited outside in the getaway car.

Identified as machine operators at a local lumber company, the men were stopped about three hours after the holdup at a roadblock set up by State Police on U. S. Route 33 near Poe Run school. Although they denied any knowledge of the holdup when questioned, the two were detained because their car answered the description given of the getaway car used by the holdup men.

Roush said the original report on the robbery said one band performed the stickup. A bank official said he was between 30 and 35 years old, weighed about 130 pounds and wore horn-rimmed glasses, blue denim clothes and an army jacket, and had adhesive tape on his face.

Wore Disguises
The two men were taken to Harman Saturday but the victims of the holdup, Ronald Cooper, 36, assistant cashier, and Arthur Cooper, 70, cashier of the bank, were unable to identify them.

Police said the glasses and face patches formed a good disguise for the holdup man who first asked to have a personal check cashed then "pulled a gun, shoved a sack through the window and asked the cashiers to put the money in it."

The elder Cooper said, "he made me lie on the floor and held a gun off me all the time. He told my son to go in the vault and get the rest of the money... then he shoved both of us in the vault and closed the doors, bolting them."

Cooper stated he and his son had been in the vault three or four minutes when they heard a customer enter. They pounded on the vault doors and were released.

Roush said Dolly had remained behind in the car because he formerly lived at Whitmer, about 14 miles from Harman, and was afraid he would be recognized.

Planned Two Weeks Ago
The men planned the robbery about two weeks ago, the officer said, and decided to carry it out Saturday. They worked regularly at the Cumberland lumber company and were visiting Dolly's parents in Whitmer.

Using Miller's car, they left for Harman to pull the holdup. After the robbery, Roush said, they drove about eight miles toward Whitmer where they cached the money in a metal box and paper sack, along with a pistol and an army jacket believed worn by Miller during the robbery, along the roadway.

Then the pair went to the Dolly home in Whitmer, where they cleaned up and prepared to go to Elkins.

State Police said this was the first bank robbery ever pulled in the history of Randolph County and was the 20th in the state of West Virginia, all of which have been solved.

Roush said each of the men is married and has one child.

Cumberland City police said last night neither of the two men has a criminal record here.

Pedestrian, 22, Is Killed By Car At Crellin

Mary Fay Harvey Is Victim; Escort Hurt

A 22-year-old Mt. Lake Park woman was killed almost instantly and her male companion was critically injured last night about 9 o'clock when they were struck by an automobile as they left a church at Crellin.

Mary Fay Harvey was dead on arrival at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Paul Roderick, also 22, of Westport, was admitted to the hospital in "very serious" condition.

Dr. A. J. Alvarez, who treated Roderick, said he sustained fractures of both legs, concussion and a fractured pelvis.

The girl died of a fractured skull and multiple internal injuries.

State Police early this morning had no details of the accident being investigated by Trooper Robert Henline, but Garrett County Sheriff Paul Fisher identified the driver as Joseph Frantz, of Hutton.

Sheriff Fisher said they apparently stepped from between several cars parked in front of the Assembly of God Church and into the path of the westbound car.

He said Frantz reported he saw the pedestrians about 50 feet away on Route 39.

The driver told authorities he was traveling between 35 and 40 miles an hour when the accident occurred, the sheriff reported.

Girl Is Injured
A 19-year-old McHenry girl was admitted to Memorial Hospital Saturday night with face lacerations and an eye injury suffered in an automobile accident on Route 219 about 11 miles north of Oakland.

Miss Susan Knotts, a passenger in a car driven by Glen Miller, 29, of Accident, will undergo an operation this morning, the hospital said last night. Her condition is listed as "fairly good."

Also injured in the mishap which occurred about 9:10 Saturday night when the car driven by Miller failed to negotiate a curve and struck another automobile, were Arthur C. Savage, 49, his wife, Margaret Savage, 47, and their daughter, Betty Lou Savage, 11.

The second vehicle was headed north on Route 219 when Miller's approaching car skidded on ice and swerved into the Savage auto, driven by Arthur Savage.

The victims were treated in Garrett County Memorial Hospital and were released. All suffered face lacerations, attendants said.

Miller, who was uninjured, came to Cumberland in the ambulance which brought Miss Knotts to the local hospital.

Four persons were slightly hurt and were treated in the Oakland hospital when two cars collided in a mishap on the road between Gorman, W. Va., and Mt. Lake Park yesterday about 3:30 p. m.

One Dead, Six Injured In Blaze

Baby Victim Of Fire In Gorman Home

Mercy Plane Flies
Three Injured To Baltimore Hospital

An 18-months-old baby was fatally burned and six other persons were injured when a four-room frame house was destroyed by an early morning fire yesterday at Gorman.

The youngest, Margaret Ann Lee, died in University Hospital, Baltimore, after a mercy plane flown by the Maryland Air National Guard took three of the more critically burned to the Baltimore hospital.

Listed in very critical condition at University Hospital and "just holding their own," with second and third degree burns over most of their bodies are Mrs. Evelyn Lee, 47, grandmother of the fatally burned child, and Loretta Lee, 10, a daughter of Mrs. Lee.

Hospitalized with varying degrees of burns at Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland are Henry Lee, 16, Mary Jane Lee, 11, Shirley Ann Lee, 7, children of Mrs. Evelyn Lee, and Frankie Lee, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Lee, parents of the little girl who died.

Attendants at the Oakland hospital said the seven injured persons were taken there at 9:38 yesterday morning following the 5 a. m. blaze which leveled the Lee family's home near Gorman.

Four Escape Injury

Dr. J. H. Feaster, who along with Drs. J. A. Alvarez and Thomas Lusby, treated the victims, said last night the four patients in the Oakland hospital were "satisfactory."

All of the victims were burned about the face, hands, arms and legs, Dr. Feaster said, while the three who were rushed to Baltimore were more critically injured, with extensive burns covering more than 50 per cent of their body area.

The baby succumbed, he said, to burns covering more than 75 per cent of its body.

Dr. Lusby said Joseph Lee, 48, husband of the critically injured woman; a son, Joseph Jr., 18, and the parents of the fatally burned child, escaped from the blazing house without injury. David Lee, 26, also is a son of the elder Lee.

Hospital attendants at Oakland said the Lee family lived in a four-room, two-story frame house about seven or eight miles from Gorman and about a quarter-mile off a secondary road in a remote and isolated section of Garrett County.

With no communications available and no automobile, the family had to stand outside helplessly in about 20-degree temperatures after escaping from the burning building, which was leveled in a matter of minutes.

Without Aid Three Hours

They were brought to the hospital by two neighbors, Herbert Wilson and Don Moreland, who were contacted by one of the Lee boys after the stricken family had been without assistance and suffering from their many burns for nearly three hours.

The grandmother told authorities her husband had got up yesterday morning to build a fire in the large wood stove downstairs. The remainder of the family was asleep on the second floor.

Some clothes hanging above the stove were ignited and the flames quickly spread to the frame building, blocking off the nearby stairway to the second floor.

The elder Lee ran outside and shouted to awaken the family as sleep upstairs. Rousing his wife and some of the older children Lee called to them to jump out the second story window.

The children quickly jumped, the authorities said, with the exception of Loretta, 10, who was severely burned when she became afraid to jump and refused to leave the burning structure.

The grandmother, who tossed Frank and Margaret Ann to her husband, returned to the burning bedroom to rescue Loretta, and the two were the last to leave the building.

Air Unit Alerted

Informed of the baby's death, Margaret Ann's mother said that in the confusion she and the baby's grandmother each thought the other had rescued the child. Margaret Ann had been severely burned before the error was discovered and she was tossed to safety.

T. B. Cumiskey Heads Federal Credit Union

Thomas B. Cumiskey Jr., was named president of the Al-Gar Federal Credit Union Friday during a meeting at the Old Herman Room.

The organization includes federal employees of the two counties. Other officers named at the annual election are Wilbur L. Ross, vice president; R. J. Stakem, treasurer and John C. McCullough, secretary.

The new officers were elected from the board of directors, which includes Cumiskey, Stakem, Ross, T. A. Carscaden, McCullough, John F. Powell and P. Emmett Fahey.

The credit committee headed by John J. Harvey includes Miss Mildred L. Peterson and Fahey. The supervisory committee headed by John Hutson includes Miss Alice Stakem and John B. Wolfhope.

Stakem made a report for the first 10 months of operation of the newly-formed group and his data showed that during the period a total of $14,110 was distributed among the members.

According to a report, a dividend of three per cent was voted by the membership. Harvey gave a breakdown on the type of loans made.

Hutson reported that the organization's books were in order and commended the treasurer. Retiring president James J. Robertson reported on the activities of the group and thanked the members for their cooperation during the 10-month period.

Textile Workers Begin Balloting

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), began casting ballots in their annual election early this morning at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation.

The first ballots were cast at 1:30 a. m. in the plant cafeteria. Additional balloting is slated today at the cafeteria at 6 a. m., on the pay lines and at the union hall.

Heavy balloting is expected since there are six seeking the president's post. They are Playford Aldridge, Harry Carns, William Gordon, Melvin Harris, Earl L. Snyder, incumbent, and John G. Thomas.

The voting will continue through Wednesday.

Fort Hill Organizations Unite In Polio Campaign

Six leading student organizations of Fort Hill High School have united forces to support the 1955 March of Dimes Campaign in its fight against polio.

Included in the groups sponsoring the drive are the Boys' Hi-Y, the Alpha and Beta Tri-Hi-Y, the Sentinel, and the student council. They hope to top the mark of $465 which Fort Hill contributed to the Allegheny County campaign last year.

Harry King, Junior Class president and also a member of the Hi-Y, Sentinel, and student council, is general chairman of the drive, having been appointed by Miss Mary M. Calentine, newspaper advisor.

He will be assisted by leaders from the groups connected with the campaign. These include Becky Rice, Alpha Tri-Hi-Y; Betty Hill, Beta Tri-Hi-Y; Fern Kenney, Hi-Y; George Eskin, Sentinel; and Louis

By LOU PANOS

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 23 (AP) — A move to probe State Roads Commission operations gained ground tonight with reports that neither Gov. McKeldin nor Commission Chairman Russell H. McCain has any objection to it.

A high-ranking Democratic member of the Maryland Legislature said he drew this conclusion after discussing the proposal with the Republican governor and McCain.

The Democratic leader, asking that his name be withheld, said McKeldin and McCain had agreed a "study" proposed in a bill last Friday could help "clear the air" of controversy surrounding the commission and its 12-year, $68-million dollar roads program.

Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County), the Senate majority leader and one of the bill's sponsors, disclosed shortly after introducing the measure that some attempt probably would be made to increase the funds available for the probe.

Some senators who attended a party meeting after the weekend adjournment of the General Assembly had expressed doubt that the originally recommended $32,000 would be enough to do the job.

One of these, Sen. Northrop (D-Montgomery), also suggested the possibility of regular checks by outside consultants on the long-range highway program, instead of just one survey while the program still has 10 years to run.

Turnbull said no one was "accusing the commission of anything" but he felt a probe might dispel any "misunderstanding resulting from recent publicity" about the agency.

"If there is something wrong," he added, "now's the time to find out about it. If there isn't the study still will have been worthwhile."

Besides the Baltimore County Democrat, sponsors of the bill include Senate President Goldstein (D-Calvert), Sens. Malkus (D-Dorchester) and Nock (D-Wicomico).

A native of Kenmore, N.Y., a suburb of Buffalo, he is a graduate of Maryland (Tenn.) College, and will be graduated from the seminary in May.

On May 29 he will be ordained to the ministry by the Presbytery of Buffalo-Niagara in his home church at Kenmore.

After his ordination he will come here as a full-time assistant pastor. Until then, he will be here only on weekends. He now is student pastor of four churches in rural Pennsylvania mining communities.

In his work here he will be responsible for Christian Endeavor work, including superintending Sunday school, the youth groups, summer conference, daily vacation Bible school, youth budget and teacher training.

Eventually he will become acting pastor of Barreille Presbyterian Church.

Goldstein and Cannon came up with bills to make the governor's appointment of commission members subject to confirmation by the Senate. In addition, Goldstein proposed that there be five members instead of three.

Parsonos, junior and senior student council.

Last year's successful march was co-sponsored by the Hi-Y and student council, and was highlighted by the annual Hi-Y vs. Men's Faculty and Tri-Hi-Y vs. Women's Faculty basketball games.

This year the teams will play again with the proceeds going to the fight against infantile paralysis. The games will commence a week-long campaign and will be the features of a March of Dimes Benefit Night in the Fort Hill Gymnasium Thursday. Other events to be held that night include the crowning of the Hi-Y's Queen Basketball I and half-time wrestling.

Honor Society Will Admit 25 Members

Twenty-five members of the Senior Class at Fort Hill High School, having met the requirements of membership in the National Honor Society, will be formally inducted at an assembly program Thursday.

Only 15 per cent of the Senior Class is eligible for membership in the honorary society, and 15 students were admitted last year. The new students swell the number of members to 40, and another induction for the Junior Class will be held later in the year.

Sixty-five boys and girls met the basic scholarship requirement for admission. This group was narrowed down to 25 by the approval of the Fort Hill faculty with emphasis on the students' character, leadership, and service.

Those to be initiated are David Abernathy, Norma Ballou, Margaret Castle, Veronica Clites, Mary Frances DeLuca, Foster George, Rita Green, Shirley Hixenbaugh, John Kiffner, Gerald Landis, Joan Luttrell, Rita Marker, Carol Newman, Donna Northcraft, Patricia Northcraft, Lewis Parsonos, Beverly Reynolds, Barbara Rice, James Thomas, Barbara Thuss, Sandra Thwaites, Patricia VanMeter, Barbara Weaver, Patricia Weaver, and Mary Wheeler.

At Thursday's assembly, to be held during the second period, the old members will conduct the service, to be supplemented with vocal solos by Joan Garlitz, Delores Rowley will be the accompanist at the piano for all musical selections.

Mahoney Urges Party To Back Md. Development

Says Industry Needed In State

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23 (AP)—George P. Mahoney, a political bridesmaid often enough but never a bride, has picked up the industrial development plank from his party's last campaign platform and is waving it in the face of fellow Democrats.

"The Democratic Party," he said yesterday, "has a certain responsibility to initiate legislation designed to fulfill this platform pledge."

Mahoney urged Democratic legislators to begin "a coordinated program to attract new industries to Maryland." He went into details about what he feels should be done.

The pronouncement was Mahoney's second in the last two weeks concerning the Maryland political scene. They came on the heels of a silence stretching back to the final settlement of the summer primary in which he lost a bitter struggle to H. C. Byrd for the gubernatorial nomination.

Political observers undoubtedly will consider his sudden activity with reference to the U. S. Senate race coming up in 1956, in an attempt to get a determination of his plans. Mahoney got the Democratic senatorial nomination in 1952, but lost in the general election to the Republican rival.

In a letter to Democratic leaders in both houses of the General Assembly, Mahoney suggested a resolution calling upon the governor to appoint a State commission "to study the need for the feasibility of a State economic and industrial development agency."

One thing such a commission should study, he said, "is credit corporation plans developed in the New England States to supply venture capital to new industries without resort to government subsidy."

Mahoney added: "A thorough study may reveal no need for a new agency in this field. But there are definite indications some areas of Maryland are suffering from serious underdevelopment."
